The Situation

ToyotaLift of Arizona is a leading distributor for material handling and warehousing solutions in Arizona and California. They required additional office space for their existing Arizona location in order to accommodate a growing staff.

The Challenge

PortaFab was brought in to assess the project scope and determined that the space could be outfitted with a solution from PortaFab’s “Quick-Ship” modular building program – which would significantly expedite the project.

The Solution

As a distributor and valued partner with PortaFab, Welch identified a PortaFab solution that captured their specific needs and showcased PortaFab’s modular capabilities.

Expedited shipping enabled the client to receive and install modular office space in a short time frame while incorporating their desired accessories into the design, creating first-class appearance and functionality. The final building served as a sales demo for potential clients and sales staff.
